Information given includes the analytical methods, possible potential for confounding exposures, specimen collection recommendations, limitations, as well as other essential information, specific for each compound and analyte. When submitting comments, ACGIH ® requires that the submission be limited to 10 pages in length, including an executive summary.

The results of animal research are also considered when relevant. Physical carcinogens - agents such as ionising and ultraviolet UV radiation have the potential to cause cancer.

Voluntary risk assessment reports
