Down on the Farm: Emmerdale's Early Days

People may complain about Emmerdale having become 'urbane' in recent years and moving away from it's so-called rural charm.

Remembering Sheila Mercier

Mercier cut back on location filming during the late 1980s and eventually left the serial in 1994 due to the gruelling schedule. In custody, Derek Warner showed his rarely seen good side when he admitted to Harry Mowlam's murder. They were forced to strip off after being caught in a heavy storm - and couldn't resist taking pictures for their fans on social media.

Reviews: Emmerdale Farm

Hilda Latimer 1—2 October 1973 2 episodes Norma Shebbeare Hilda is the mother of , who arrives in Beckindale to attend his trial for raping and murdering 17-year-old.

Classic Emmerdale

In this Country Diary, Annie tells us what rural life was really like when she was growing up - all the hints that helped 'make do' during the war, the attitudes of the farming folk. It's on 5 days a week but if you compare it to EastEnders that's one soap episode extra and this episode is Wednesday's soap break for EastEnders! She agrees, but is he making a huge mistake. She later returned for good with her mother and half-brother in 1980.

Emphasis On Emmerdale Farm itself in early years

Janie Harker makes her first appearance on October 23. Her back story was that she was married to Jacob, a drunken wastrel, and was left widowed by the time the series started. However, she appeared on location in a car during the 1993 plane crash episodes.

Annie Sugden

And you should see him now.

Emmerdale's Charley Webb says she and husband Matthew Wolfenden aren't romantic anymore

Barney 23 October 1972 — 16 May 1978 George Malpas Barney is Beckindale's postman and a regular drinker at The Woolpack. His death saw the return of Jack Sugden after 8 years and Beckindale's overdue emergence into the 20th century. There's always something new happening there.
