Why, if your part exceed to-day, I hope Ours may, to-morrow match it.

The alchemist [by] Ben Jonson : Bailey, Chris, 1954

Well, I must not lose my wary gamester yonder. Ananias, an Anabaptist, enters and is greeted with fury by Subtle.

The Alchemist by Ben Jonson

It is however apparently genuine, and even so it doesn't need to be followed in great detail. Let me find grace, sir, in your eyes; the man He stands corrected: neither did his zeal, But as your self, allow a tune somewhere. Please you, a servant of the exiled brethren, That deal with widows' and with orphans' goods, And make a just account unto the saints: A deacon.
