We have warm, pleasant days and cold nights. The past tense denotes past time. Come with me now to the other class, those who were saved by repentance.

Bennett's New Latin Grammar

An adjective is a word added to a noun or pronoun. The following nouns in -us are Feminine by exception:— a Names of towns, islands, trees— according to the general rule laid down in , 2; also some names of countries; as Aegyptus, Egypt. This makes it feasible to dispense with the enumeration of many minutiae of usage which would otherwise demand consideration in a student's grammar.
