What does sexuation mean?

Here is a piece that departs from Lacan's matrix, and this departure is discernable both in its intent and the language it employs. Lacan also seems to entertain the possibility that this jouissance might not be a jouissance outside of language at all, but a certain way of enjoying speaking itself masculine sexuated being directed or always aimed at a specific point, feminine sexuated speech, like 's', taking in the act of speaking itself even if it's about at all.

While some examine the role of semblances in the relation between the sexes or consider sexual identity not as anatomy but still involving an impasse of the real, others discuss the difference between sexuation and identification, the role of symbolic prohibition in the process of the subject's sexual formation, or the changed role of the father in contemporary society and the impact of this change on sexual difference. On the one hand, a categorical proposition possesses a quantity insofar as it represents a universal or a particular predication, denoted by the adjectives 'all' or 'some' where 'some' is understood as 'at least one', respectively.
