2021 Scottish Parliament election

The Deputy Presiding Officer Linda Fabiani The next item of business is a stage 1 debate on motion S5M-23648, in the name of Graeme Dey, on the Scottish General Election Coronavirus Bill. Stand up for change by voting for the candidates that would make the decisions you want to see.

If they have any difficulty at this stage, I ask them to raise their hand to attract the attention of the information technology team, or raise an inquiry online. Labour lost 17% of the vote, finishing on 9%, and had their worst showing in Scotland since 1910; the Greens held level at 8%. The earlier deadline for postal ballot applications is crucial, in my opinion.

5 Reasons to vote in the Scottish Parliament Elections

It is unfortunate that he talked about a solution in search of a problem; in fact, there is a problem, and I am in search of a solution. Before I leave the issue of education, let me remind the chamber that we already had plans in place for the staggered return of universities and colleges. That all and every person and persons, who have aided, advised, assisted, or abetted in any war against the Parliament, since the first day of January, 1641 unless they have been since in the service of the Parliament, and given signal testimony of their good affection thereunto shall be disabled and incapable to be elected, or to give any vote in the election of any members to serve in the next Parliament, or in the three succeeding Triennial Parliaments.

Scottish Parliament

If you live in Scotland, you are represented by eight MSPs — one represents your Scottish Parliament constituency and the other seven all represent your region. All in all, I support the passage of the Scottish General Election Coronavirus Bill to stage 2 in these extremely challenging times. I accept that that is not ideal and appears to run counter to maximising the uptake of postal votes, but it is a pragmatic and necessary step that has been taken on the basis of clear advice from the electoral professionals, and I think that the committee recognised that in its report.

Affordable housing should be ‘the cornerstone of Scotland’s recovery’

We are relying on every member of the electorate being fully informed.

Instrument of Government, 1653

I am making a request to have that schedule of information published.
