In God's Path: The Arab Conquests and the Creation of an Islamic Empire

The most famous tool of the French Revolution, the guillotine, was used to chop off heads quickly, efficiently, and dramatically. After seeing Western armies, previously despised, inflict one defeat after another on the hitherto invincible soldiers of Islam, Middle Easterners watched Western traders move quietly into markets which they had dominated. Ambulatory, Gloucester Cathedral An aisle often surrounds the apse, running behind the altar.
