The most significant energy sources consumed in Ohio are coal, petroleum products, natural gas, and electric power. An analysis of the sectors' consumption in 1981 by energy source shows that both the residential and commercial sectors relied predominantly on electricity, followed by natural gas and petroleum. Electricity supplied about 32 percent, petroleum and natural gas supplied 28 percent each, and coal contributed 11 percent.

Public Library Statistics: State Library of Iowa, 1976

In terms of shares of total energy, the industrial sector accounted for less of the total in 1981 than in 1960, but each of the other three sectors increased its share of the total. Report problems with the links to HQMC ARDE, at 703 614-1712 or Send Email: smb.

Notebooks, 1960

The first edition presents historical data through 1988 and in some cases, 1989 and 1990, when available. The transportation sector was almost completely dependent upon petroleum. Research on Libraries and Librarianship:Â Yearly Article in Library and Book Trade Almanac pdf
