The Impact of Evidence

Predatory journals: Alerting nurses to potentially unreliable content.

Instruments to Evaluate Nurse Residency Programs: A Review of the Literature

Quality of care is not a state of being but a process of becoming. Also, health care organizations that have adopted these measures can offer their experience. The next question would be: Over what time period are falls measured: a week, a fortnight, a month, a quarter, or a year? It would not be fair to the health care team if the patients on the unit are a lot sicker than those on the unit a floor above.

Use of the Delphi method to generate guidance in emergency nursing practice: A systematic review

Significant variations should be investigated to determine if there is a valid explanation. Thus, the medical record documentation does not support the code assignment. Let us examine how this could be done in a clinical setting.

Process KPIs - measure the efficiency or productivity of a business process. The core issue of reliability is measurement error, or the difference between the actual phenomenon and its measurement: The greater the difference, the less reliable the performance measure.

Instruments to Evaluate Nurse Residency Programs: A Review of the Literature

Several notable federal grant programs have evolved to foster research that produces the evidential foundation for effective strategies in employing EBP. The best knowledge to have is research evidence—preferably from randomized clinical trials experimental studies —yet without ignoring the relevance of less rigorous studies nonrandomized studies, epidemiological investigations, descriptive studies, even case studies.

System

How can we design evaluation programs that enable us to measure quality without adding more burden of data collection, of taking time away from direct nursing care? Journal of Nursing Management, 18 1 , 96-104. On the other hand, consumers of health care patients, but also purchasers, payers, regulators, and accreditors are much less concerned with the processes in place as with the results of those processes.

Measuring Performance and Improving Quality

Qualitative KPI - A descriptive characteristic, an opinion, a property or a trait.

System

To be realistic, in nursing we have limited evidence to guide the care of older adults.
