Penn's sports teams are nicknamed the Quakers after the religion adopted by William Penn, who established Pennsylvania as a Quaker province. A principal factor that led to the reshaping of Penn's history was the growing rivalry with Princeton, which was played out on the football field, in the design of the campus, and in aspects of campus life from rituals to songs. It is popular in China, Japan, Canada, Sweden, and Russia.

The arrival of European Catholic culture readily adapted local skills to the prevailing style, producing enormously elaborate and other mostly church sculptures in a variety of hybrid styles. Surrealist imagery, anthropomorphic abstraction, new materials and combinations of new energy sources and varied surfaces and objects became characteristic of much new modernist sculpture. Native Chinese religions do not usually use cult images of deities, or even represent them, and large religious sculpture is nearly all Buddhist, dating mostly from the 4th to the 14th century, and initially using Greco-Buddhist models arriving via the.

This campus attraction is a smaller version of the original, which is located downtown in John F. Relief could be very high indeed, as in the Parthenon illustration below, where most of the leg of the warrior is completely detached from the background, as were the missing parts; relief this high made sculptures more subject to damage. Michelangelo was an active sculptor from about 1500 to 1520, and his great masterpieces including his , , , and pieces for the and could not be ignored by subsequent sculptors.

His design was ambiguous and somewhat controversial, and what the figure represents is not clear; it could be a bird, a horse, a woman or a totally abstract shape. The conquest of the whole of Mesopotamia and much surrounding territory by the Assyrians created a larger and wealthier state than the region had known before, and very grandiose art in palaces and public places, no doubt partly intended to match the splendour of the art of the neighbouring Egyptian empire. Carving is often highly detailed, with an intricate backing behind the main figure in high relief.

This appears as early as the from Dynasty I. In recent decades, Hey Day has represented the official passage of the junior class to senior status and is characterized by thousands of marching students parading around campus and wearing red T-shirts, carrying canes, and biting into fake straw hats. It is worth 5% of the final degree mark.
