Climate change and biodiversity

As land and sea undergo rapid changes, the animals that inhabit them are doomed to disappear if they don't adapt quickly enough.

What Is the Greenhouse Effect?

Heat waves, droughts, and intense rain events have increased in frequency during the last 50 years, and human-induced global warming more likely than not contributed to the trend. Apart from driving temperatures up, global warming is likely to cause bigger, more destructive storms, leading to an overall increase in precipitation.

What is global warming

In the daytime, sunlight shines into the greenhouse and warms the plants and air inside.

Consequences and Effects of Global Warming

Like clumsy criminals, glaciers leave many clues behind.

What is the greenhouse effect?

On balance, most research suggests that the negative impacts of a changing climate far outweigh the positive impacts. The main sources created by human activity are agriculture especially the development of pastures in tropical regions , biomass burning and a number of industrial processes.

Global Warming

If warmer temperatures result in a greater amount of high clouds, then less infrared energy will be emitted to space.
