A garden to relax in at Buckland Abbey

Delightful place to be indeed. This was incorporated into the abbey's guesthouse, which was constructed during 1982 and 1994, when the abbey's precinct was rebuilt. Apparently the nave of the old church where the monks were buried sits under the pink and white tiled floor of the Great Hall.

Sir Francis Drake and the Rembrandt Selfie

January 2018 appointed Abbot Administrator after the community failed to elect an Abbot. The spirit of Drake is said to live on in this battered drum and there is an old tradition that its beat will be heard whenever England is in danger. The former abbey site was used as a quarry, and later became home to a Gothic mansion house.
