Declines in population and the ad valorem property tax base generally lead to a situation in which it is very difficult to adjust community services to both the need and capacity of the community. The largest rivers are the Tigris and the Euphrates, both originating in eastern Turkey, running in separate streams through Syria and Iraq, and re-joining in southern Iraq before they enter the Gulf Held and Cotter. Cropland with two harvest periods double cropping generally covered a smaller area than single cropped land.
