It is also the chronicle of a profound psychological crisis, and how that crisis was resolved. In this view they were joined by John Jay, the celebrated architect of the peace with Britain, who had discovered that in the absence of a national government with appropriate coercive powers, the terms of the treaty could not be enforced on the American states. Biographer Ron Chernow considers the circumstances to indicate that Burr fired second, after having taken deliberate aim.

Dr. Alexander Hamilton and Provincial America: Expanding the Orbit of Scottish Culture by Elaine G. Breslaw, Hardcover

The author leaves out two important facts: 1 that all the great luminaries of the Enlightenment were men -- the first such mention of which is accompanied by a brief account of the iniquitous social conditions of women who had few if any opportunities to participate in a major intellectual moment; and 2 that the great men of the era liked it this way -- which is not mentioned at all. We have no creeds and no doctrines, but we are united by our belief in the worth and dignity of each individual and our commitment to working together to create a more just, humane, and peaceful world.
