Perhaps she had blossomed in his heart in a previous birth. We Indians believe in the presiding deities of our village, family, home as well as the personal gods of our choice istadebata. All the beautiful and variegated expressions of the world of nature filled his being with a single grand whole....

and World

Wherever you walk in this world, Wherever sit, wherever stand, In spring or winter, day or night, You'll bear the ceaseless clanking weight Of this hard heart in shackles round your feet. My goddess, I bring to your feet All my failed enterprise, The prized possession of my life.

Rabindranath Tagore

Rabindranath is a poet par excellence and not a pedantic scholar. Human creative impulse, then, does have a springboard and its anubhuti is the lord of life or Jibaner Adhishwar, that is Jibandebata. My lap is full—my bride again Has come to me! Sep 12, · SEVEN WISE MASTERS, THE, a cycle of stories of Oriental origin.
