Technical colleges and further education

Cyril Burt publishes The Measurement of Mental Capacities. In the 803, with an increased consciousness of equal opportunities, the focus of the further education college moved to widen participation, encouraging into colleges students from previously under-represented groups, particularly from ethnic minorities. They are neither recipients nor consumers of what the youth worker is offering, but are both active and willing partners in the process.

HMI report shows high standards of education and practice at Sabhal Mòr Ostaig

C The answer is in paragraph c. Secondly, we have shown that many FE colleges serve their whole community well. C The answer is in the first sentence of the second paragraph.

Education inspectorate reports

Ordinary and Higher Certificates and Diplomas Awarded Between 1950 and 1955 in Science and Engineering. Also Colleges of Technology and Further Education offered these qualifications to students leaving Secondary Modern Schools. This is unlikely to happen without some difficulty and since change has been supported by a quite incredible degree of micro-management, and by such complex bureaucratic procedures, it is not surprising that much of the FE sector is sick of change and not inclined to associate it with improvement.

In or Out?, Tyes and Greens

It consists in offering young people a variety of experiences, encouraging and enabling those involved to reflect on these experiences and to learn from them.

The main qualification studied was the degree equivalent Diploma of Technology Dip. This is a timely, powerful piece of work that charts a clear course for the sector.

Because we have to reach our destination more quickly, the train hurtles at break-neck speed along tracks not designed to carry carriages at such high velocity. A later development took the audience into his fantasy world where he performed a version of the famous Astaire golf-drive routine with plastic mugs and a walking stick. By 1817 the land was owned by Charles Townsend of Ferriers Farm, and in 1821 he built two brick cottages on the site, each cottage occupied by two families of agricultural labourers.
