Project Topic

Basically, I will be taking you on the problems of local government in Nigeria.

The Role of Local Government in Rural Development Issues / Ibieta Olajide / Profiles / Home

Must read: Bribery and Corruption: No doubt, corruption plays in every country and political system, but the rate of corruption in the local government system of Nigeria is becoming alarming everyday.

Nsirim also sponsored over 30 students to Law Schools in Abuja, Enugu, Lagos and Kano. This opportunity lies in the numerous governance reform programs, the demands from citizens and political stakeholders for a system of power-sharing between the national government and sub-national units and the growing civil society movement. The 1979, 1989 as well as the 1999 FRN, empowered local government to provide roads, health care facilities and certain basic primary services.

DEVELOPMENTAL LOCAL GOVERNMENT

It provides that allocation of funds from the federal to local government must be done through the state government.

The study also focuses on the social, political and economical roles of local government in community development in Ogbadibo local government area from 1989 till 2014.

DEVELOPMENTAL LOCAL GOVERNMENT

One of the strengths of integrated development planning is that it involves the community in development, delivery and democracy. It contributed to a major growth of agriculture in Nigeria. Thus, constitutional reform is critical to facilitating decentralization in Liberia.

Rural development in Nigeria since independence ▷ Legit.ng

Tribalism and favoritism must be stopped or rapidly reduced for local governments to be effective in Nigeria. The power department is mismanaged and corrupt, and a lot of workers in the electricity department are not equipped with the proper training or skills. Regardless, some smart managers of these establishments have been able to use the limited resources at their disposal to make appreciable impact on local communities.

Economic Development in Nigeria: An Overview

This arrangement, rooted in the Constitution and statutes, has not provided for the creation of self-governance and service delivery institutions at the local level. One can appreciate their emphasis on rural roads as an acknowledgement of the wisdom of the Roman dictum that civilisation follows the roads.
