What a terrible thing to do, threatening to lock you all in the dungeons, I bet your Aunty Eva had a quiet word with him. GHOSTS OF TEMPLE NEWSAM By Eddie Blackwell First A bit of the history of Temple Newsam House. There is a regular programme of exhibitions and new displays.

GHOSTS OF TEMPLE NEWSAM

This beautiful piece of art was originally illustrated over many hours using pencil, fine liner and pro markers. Eddie I am able to reveal what was behind that sign Not open to public at the house.

Made from real ayous wood with a paint finish. Eve asked mum if we kids would like to go on a tour of the house when it was closed to the public and Jim would show us round. All the children were of course excited, and my Brother in law Roy, and I would take them out for a walk to let off steam, trying to tire them a little in the hopes that they would go to sleep when we got back, then we could have a quiet celebration.
