You have convenient Lodging, and that is a great Mercy — an easy warm bed, a good House around you ... You have attendants to wait upon you, as your Necessities require, Night and Day — you have Food sufficient and proper — such as may comfort and support Nature, without feeding your Distemper — And then you have the most suitable Medicine, in their greatest perfection, prescribed by PHYSICIANS, judged by those who have consigned this office to them to be of approved Skill and Experience — Such persons cannot be under the least Temptation to overload you with them; a Circumstance which is of no small Importance — These Gentlemen visit you at proper Seasons, they are ready to attend to you at any time, if an extraordinary Circumstance in your Case should make it necessary.
