On 1 May 1904 the USFSA also selected the first official.

1960 European Nations' Cup final tournament

It was only the third match between the two nations: the first, held at Cardiff in 1908, had proved popular due to the novelty. Guillemin was selected for an international match between the best of London and the best of Paris, played at Stade de France on 12 March. Le Parc des Princes has been in existence since 1897, which was then called Stade Velodrome du, though it has been through numerous different iterations since then.

This stand happens to house the most passionate and ardent supporters of PSG. Late in the match, Metreveli's cross-shot passed across the goalmouth and was missed by Ponedelnik before Ivanov struck it wide from close range.

Parc des Princes the home of PSG

Away pubs Parc des Princes is in a typical dense Parisian neighbourhood. This gave the stadium its name. Upon their return to Moscow, they were lauded by more than 100,000 people at a victory parade held in the Central Lenin Stadium.

Pierre Guillemin

The Parc des Princes is a unique stadium, as much for its architecture, its indescribable atmosphere during major national and European events, as for its history and the players who have played there. Yugoslavia dominated the early stages of the match and Soviet Union goalkeeper was forced to save two from Kostić. The Complete Who's Who of International Rugby.

1960 European Nations' Cup Final

Initially, the venue had served as a cycle racing track and also held a number of rugby matches. Yugoslavia, managed by a committee, elected to change their goalkeeper, bringing in in place of who was suffering from an eye problem.
