Neurotoxic Effects of Lead

Therefore, identifying the structural alterations associated with prenatal alcohol exposure and understanding the underlying mechanisms of these changes are critical steps in developing both prevention and intervention strategies.

Neurotoxic Effects of Lead

The first indication generally is difficulty walking gait ataxia. A basal polysomal mass in the Purkinje cells of 21-day-old ZD rats indicated that zinc deficiency impaired the cytoplasmic maturation of Purkinje cells. Journal of Biological Chemistry 274:13264— 13270, 1999.

Some effects of undernutrition of synaptic development — a quantitative ultrastructural study

Corpus callosum shape and neuropsychological deficits in adult males with heavy fetal alcohol exposure. Relationships between various behavioural abnormalities and nigrostriatal dopamine depletion in the unilateral 6—OHDA—lesioned rat.

The effect of chronic low level lead exposure on blood

As the disease progresses, coordination problems worsen. Effects of alcohol on the generation and migration of cerebral cortical neurons.

Role of Nutrition in Growth & Development of Children & Adolescents

People who are not professionally trained to analyze facial dysmorphology can easily recognize this anomaly because the weight and size of FAS infants are distinctly smaller than normal. Patterns of alcohol consumption and fetal development.
