Placing Preservation Restrictions on Historic Resources

The primary goal of the Secretary's Standards for Rehabilitation is preservation of the historic materials and features that make a property significant. The Secretary's Standards for Rehabilitation are federal standards that define appropriate treatment of historic properties.

State Historic Preservation Offices

Chapter 40C , but they cannot hold a preservation restriction on a town-owned property. What are the Secretary's Standards for Rehabilitation of Historic Properties? How should we monitor a Preservation Restriction to ensure its effectiveness? The key to avoiding problems and court costs is catching

This protects the town's investment should the property change hands or become subject to additional development pressures. A Preservation Restriction is filed at the Registry of Deeds and runs with the land.
