One Hundred One Famous Poems

In future I would read a poem or two a day so I could reflect on each for a time.

101 Famous Poems with a Prose Supplement 1929 Anthology

The poetry selections themselves range from serious verse to mere doggerel, though amusing doggerel.

One Hundred and One Famous Poems With a Prose Supplement by Cook, Roy J

May contain limited notes, underlining or highlighting that does affect the text. The poems entertained me, taught me to love language, and extolled traditional American values of home, country, initiative, and community. I cannot recommend this book enough--assuming you're even able to get your hands upon it.

101 Famous Poems with a Prose Supplement 1929 Anthology

The page is there, it was just left blank. My favorites from this collection include the following: The Charge of the Light Brigade by Lord Alfred Tennyson The Night Has a Thousand Eyes by Francis William Bourdillon I Have a Rendezvous with Death by Alan Seeger In Flanders Fields by Lieutenant-Colonel John McCrae Grass by Carl Sandburg Not In Vain by Emily Dickinson If by Rudyard Kipling Invictus by William Ernest Henley The Spider and the Fly by Mary Howitt This is a beautiful tome found in my late grandpa's house.

One Hundred and One Famous Poems with a Prose Supplement

I found One Hundred and One Famous Poems and read it so often that my grandfather gave it to me. It's worth your time to mark which ones you liked best and come back to them time and time again.
