I think now my work here is done and I hope, wherever you are in the world, you can find something to think about if you're trying to save money or make money. Although the UK is the seventh richest country in the world, it is also deeply unequal, and millions of families across the UK are living below the breadline. I thought a couple of weeks ago that I'd gone over the top when I bought a tin of Heinz spicy lentil and vegetable soup for £1 but I had it last night with some toast and it was delicious.

Surviving On The Breadline

What occurs when you poke a hole in a little bit of meat that has been on the smoker some time? They have never judged me or looked down on me for needing help.

Bread Line is a A 501 C 3 Non-Profit Organization Serving the Fairbanks Community Since 1984 For more than 30 years, Bread Line has helped to feed the hungry and affirm lives in the Fairbanks community.

Meal Planning Monday: Live Below the Line ~ Live on £1 a Day for 5 Days to understand Food Poverty

Throughout occasions of loss, it heals. But, linked to an emerging , with the iconography of the 40s and rationing, was the idea that doing without could be an occasion for virtue and health.

BBC One

Or trying to find a gig you could do that would bring in an extra bit of income for the week? For many years I was a bit dubious about the nutritional value of frozen and tinned vegetables and fruit but I've now seen so many programmes that produce compelling evidence to that I'm now a great fan of tinned and frozen.

The store cupboard ingredients are charged to recipes on a pro rata basis while all extra ingredients are charged at the full supermarket unit cost to reflect realistic shopping opportunities. I always look at the ingredients on the back of the packet and I was pleased to see that the fish is Pollock of which there's a relatively robust stock in nearby waters.
