1983 Beirut Barracks Bombing: 'The BLT Building Is Gone!'

Two decades ago, John Nash was a 19-year-old Marine Corps corporal who specialized in processing messages. The lowest claim was 200 yards away from the articles above. Syria opposed the agreement, however, and refused to retreat.

MARINES

On 4 August, an explosion at the port of Beirut killed at least 190 people, injured more than 6,500, and left an around 300,000 people homeless. Some experts believe that Hezbollah already existed as an underground organization in 1982.

As apparent , he has always expressed pride in this. If Iran played a role, it was in the context of the Iran-Iraq war. A dollar was costing 1,800 pounds or more on Friday compared to 1,740 on Thursday, two market sources said.

1983 Beirut barracks bombing: 'The BLT Building is gone!'

Article: Security Problems Uncovered at US Bases in Iraq Date: Published April 26, 2009 — Associated Press REF: Significance: Nash as contractor in Iraq.

The Origins of Hezbollah

FOIA RESULTS — SELECTED Records show overlapping dates for the Armed Forces Expeditionary medal and the Marine Corps Expeditionary medal during his deployment in 1983. Where was Hill sleeping that morning — the BLT HQ or MSSG-24 HQ? Beirut was under a cease-fire, and hopes were high for Syrian reconciliation talks.

Beirut barracks blown up

Lebanese Muslims along with Syria supported the Palestinians, while Lebanese Christians aligned with Israel opposed them. I think Nash has embellished his account for decades...cashing in on his embellishments should be condemned.
