It was written to accompany the installation of an exhibit of the artist's proofs at the Wheaton Museum of Glass in 1979. In 1972, Paul left industry to pursue his dream of being creative in glass full time. The paperweights represented sacrifice, prayers, and perseverance in a very personal way.

Paperweight Collectors Association of Ontario

Earlier memories of seeing the Blaschka flowers at Harvard University and being in contact with Whittemore, inspired Stankard to start experimenting with making paperweights in 1969.
