Richard III (Silents Now) @ York Theatre Royal

Colin Veitch But there was much more to Colin Veitch than his football talent, immense though that was, as shown by his presence at that inaugural meeting of the Clarion Dramatic Society, as it was then called. He was already a sick man, and on 25 April 1616 he was buried in Holy Trinity Church in Stratford, where he had been baptised just fifty-two years earlier.

Royal Shakespeare Company

Many thanks for letting me know if so. Many thanks for this Peter — both for the detail of your attention to some of the questions this raises and for your considered reflections upon these too.

The Merry Shrews of Venice

Joseph Harker was a famous scenic painter, best known for his work with Henry Irving and Beerbohm Tree. A piece of workmanlike printing, on the rectos of eight leaves, stapled into light-brown wraps, with the cover bearing the title 'SHAKESPEARE THOUGHTS IN 1964' at head and Fry's name 'Christopher Fry' at foot , and with black tape along spine.

Shakespeare and Stratford

If the sight of a 'most wonderful and gigantic mountain of cheese' wasn't enough of an inducement to visit Lipton's: 'When being made numerous sovereigns and half-sovereigns - provided by Mr Lipton - were mixed amongst the curds.

W B Yeats and Stratford

. Also arranged for tuba and pianoforte. You generally let me have something during the Season.

Shakespeare and Stratford

All in good condition, lightly aged and worn.

Two Gentlemen of Verona (etc.), 22 April

Adding words to a silent film introduces a process of focalisation that suggests, if not going so far as to demand, that we pay attention to one of the many things happening on the screen, and in doing so diminishes the small amount of choice for an audience.
