Recent scholarship has highlighted this dimension of his work. Importantly, this conceit allowed both the Athenians and the Melians to present their views directly and as a collective voice. The Athenians counter by pointing out: the standard of justice depends on the equality of power to compel and that... the strong do what they have the power to do and the weak accept what they have to accept.

The reasons he gave were three-fold: the Peloponnesian War was fought between two cities at the height of their power; these powers went into conflict prepared; and most of the Greek world and beyond was subsequently drawn into the fighting. Very minimal damage to the cover including scuff marks, but no holes or tears.
