Audit/Evaluation Reports

Because of the high volume of notices mailed to SSA clients, almost all of the processes for generating and mailing materials are automated.

Office of the Inspector General

As the forfeiture programs grew in the 1980s, Justice and Customs experienced significant problems with asset management and disposition. Seized and forfeited property can be cash, bank accounts, automobiles, boats, airplanes, jewelry, art objects, or real estate. Furthermore, in June 1991, we identified substantial savings that could be realized through merging postseizure noncash property management functions.

Asset Forfeiture Programs

Actions are being taken to address the internal control and systems problems; however, many of these efforts are in various stages of development. PROGRESS In our December 1992 high-risk report on asset forfeiture programs, we reported that major operational problems relating to the management and disposition of seized and forfeited property had been identified and corrective actions were being initiated.
