THE PARIS AGREEMENT ON VIETNAM

The report indicated that 29,217 men and women 16 percent of those accepted by Armed Forces Examining and Entrance Stations during fiscal year 1972 had to be discharged later because they were found to have been unfit mentally, physically, or morally when first accepted. It would have made them stakeholders in that process, making it impossible to pull the rug out from under the Paris Peace Accords the following year. The points that should be noted, in addition to conspicuous concessions made by the Government side, were that i the agreement was worked out between the parties concerned in Laos on the basis of the present Constitutional setup and ii both agreed to include more realistic and concrete provisions for a political settlement compared with the Paris Agreement.

Kissinger's betrayal: He sold out South Vietnam in the 1973 Paris Accords

In its written opinion, the Ninth Circuit pointed out that there was uncontested expert medical opinion that had the electrocardiogram been properly interpreted the decedent's chances of living would have been improved at least 50 percent by immediate admission to Tripler.

Situation in Indochina Peninsula

Very interestingly, the report coincides exactly with Dr. And this was an enormous advantage for the other side.

Battlefield: Vietnam

I dont want to speak for President Nixon on this, because he kept me out of domestic politics.

Chapter VI: Personnel

Kissinger and everybody that the deal was as good an agreement as one could make. I can recall returning from Beijing after lengthy discussions with Zhou Enlai, and Henry had had the same discussions earlier in secret visits there.

Battlefield: Vietnam

It constituted direct interference in the activities of the executive branch and the responsibilities of the Chief Executive, the only people with authority to negotiate on behalf of the nation. There had been many times during the history of the Vietnam War when there were grounds for skepticism or pessimism about whether the South Vietnamese could ever have a chance to survive on their own.

And the second thesis, which is the Shawcross thesis, which is that we enabled them to recruit in a way that they wouldnt have been able to before.
