Economic development

Wherever a lessening of population pressures through reduced birth rates can increase the prospects for such stability, population policy becomes relevant to resource supplies and to the economic interests of the United States.

Economic development

Prior to the introduction of infant formula the average breastfeeding period in most non industrialized countries was between 4 to 5 years, resulting in a normal reproduction rate of about 5 to 6 years.

U.S. Drug Policy

Exaggerated claims of drugs causing violence have been repeated time and again regarding marijuana, heroin, LSD, crack cocaine, and lately, methamphetamines. In addition, children are being incorporated into the drug-trafficking system. Gray zone approaches represent coercion under cover; stripping away the cover can help combat or punish the coercion.
