Jagdgeschwader 27

Rödel took command of II. The German authorities were cognizant of the threat of these unemployed ex-soldiers and other dissident elements uniting to form a resistance movement.

World War II B17 true story of B

Two squadrons of Bf 109s and from the took part in the defence claiming five bombers for one loss. Four and later five in number, these battalions, under the command of General Ljotitch, were scattered about the German-occupied area of Serbia. The entire geschwader remained inert until April 1941.

German Antiguerrilla Operations in the Balkans (1941)

On 22 May, JG 27 was still operational over the ports, claiming 18 Allied aircraft between Calais and Dunkirk. On March 1, 1944, the Grand Mufti issued from Berlin the following call to all Muslims: Kill the Jews wherever you find them.

Of these, one million were caused by Yugoslav killing Yugoslav, whether it was Croat Ustase against Jews, Muslims, Serbs, Chetniks and Partisans; or Partisans against Chetniks and Ustase; or Chetniks against Ustase, Muslims, and Partisans.

Force 10 from Navarone (1978)

Moreover, the equipment, particularly armored and motor vehicles, was below the general Wehrmacht standard and resulted in numerous breakdowns that might otherwise not have occurred. The weather was bad over home bases which delayed take-offs until the afternoon.

Axis occupation of Greece

When the field was finished, Jibilian radioed Bari to schedule evacuations for the following night.

However, there is ample evidence that a number of his subordinates made armistice arrangements with the occupation forces and even assisted them on occasion. The Donauzeitung newspaper of December 31, 1942 reported that the Mufti had donated over 240,000 Kuna, the currency of the NDH regime, to the Muslim charity organization in Sarajevo from German government sources. Since much of the German air effort in the eastern Mediterranean was directed from Athens, the headquarters of the Military Commander, Southern Greece, was staffed largely by the Air Force.
