BUSAN METROPOLITAN CITY

A tremendous drive just over the bar from Song Chong-gug seven minutes into the second half suggested South Korea may rally, but Turkey picked up the pace again and Kim Tae-young, in as a half-time replacement for Hong Myung-bo, was not short of action. After four years of rising home attendances, many new supporters have recently discovered the joys of watching Busan IPark, but there has been a group of hardcore supporters that have always been behind the club, even during their darkest times. The home side were on level terms just seven minutes later, courtesy of one of the best goals of the tournament.

Busan World Cup 2002

A post shared by busaniparkp. The almost anonymous Rivaldo caused chaos in the German defense as he stepped over Kleberson's low center.

The Book Trader

I guess the Brazilian showed all the naysayers just how wrong they were. He was shocked at first when he saw the banner close up after a game, but he said that the banner gives him laughter and made him feel valued by the supporters.

Meidas Touch Flies 'LoserPalooza' Banner Over Trump Rally in Florida, Hashtag Trends on Twitter

It was bitterly ironic that, having done so much to get his side to the final, Kahn was at fault for the goal. And wasn't that final match between Germany and Brazil a doozy.

BUSAN METROPOLITAN CITY

There is one chant from the past I must mention. The group posted cell phone video recorded from onboard the aircraft as well as footage recorded by people on the ground.
