The Mountains of Wales : Climbing, Hiking & Mountaineering : SummitPost

The great clouds gather and shroud my sun — But you shall be Queen where the rose and myrtle Laugh with the year till the year is done. The Lotus dreams 'neath the dreaming skies, Its beauty touching with spell divine The grey old town, till the old town lies Like one half-drunk with a magic wine.

Recording Poem for Places of Poetry Anthology

The soft moss sleeps upon the stone, Green tendrils of the scrub-vine zone The dead gray trunks, and boulders red, Roofed by the pine and carpeted With maidenhair.

Recording Poem for Places of Poetry Anthology

Not anointed with oil — It is difficult to determine whether this refers to Saul or his shield.

R.S. Thomas Collection

Surely the old gods, dwellers on Olympus, Under thy shining loveliness have strayed.

New Land, New Language: An Anthology of Australian Verse

Certain sounds Of strong authentic sorrow in this book May have the sob of upland torrents — these, And only these, may touch the great World's heart For, lo! You used to sing it With laughter and tears. Good is the word of the Lord - He has spoken right, I have done foolishly. That cometh during the Holidays, Fa la la la la, la la la la.
