The best restaurants in Melbourne for 2020

The French-ish menu nods and winks at tradition: roasted snails with house XO sauce, and gratin spicy with kimchi. This is a playground for discerning palates, where cashed-up couples canoodle on soft leather banquettes over Champagne and oysters while solo diners on spartan bar stools pore over Nick Hildebrandt's riveting wine list. Dinner is fun as well as formal, not least because the wine list — ably food-matched by sommelier Loic Avril — is among the city's best.

Luxury Dining on a Shoestring: London's Best Value Michelin

The 5-cheese blend was amazing and my kids said they thought it tasted EXACTLY like their favorite restaurant version. It's big-ticket stuff, and the staff are suitably informed and generous, the drinks offer extensive, the set-pieces timed to the second.

Harvester Restaurants

It's still a thrill to behold the signature confit ocean trout, draped elegantly over matchsticks of green apple and witlof, to feel the pop of the unpasteurised trout roe, to savour the length of flavour in the crumbled kombu coating. Variation in serving sizes, preparation techniques, product testing and sources of supply, as well as regional and seasonal differences may affect the nutrition values for each product.

Great Value Gourmet: Meals and Menus for 1 Pound

Pairs great with pizza and a beer. Fried coconut bakes showered in fresh coconut come alongside for dabbing and mopping. It's a little hammy, sure, but the mood is right on: in bringing a Japanese mood to bear on Italian cuisine, Federico Zanellato treads territory few chefs dare to.

Luxury Dining on a Shoestring: London's Best Value Michelin

The advises preparing for a potential pandemic by having a two-week supply of food and water on hand among other things, like prescription and OTC meds.

Recipes

Tradition is kept close, but it's made modern. Nowhere at Quay is the interplay of texture and rare ingredients so striking than in a small bowl of hand-harvested seafood dressed with virgin soy sauce, aged brown rice vinegar and laver.
