Guiding Young Children

Remember that children learn how to handle their emotions by watching parents handle theirs. Try not to tell children how they should feel.

Guiding Young Children: A Problem

When there is a new pattern of acting out, children and parents should talk about how they are feeling. This shows you that there may be a backlog of deeper hurts that they need one on one help with without having to worry about hurting the feelings of the other or feeling hurt even more by their sibling. About this Item: Preschool Pubns.
