Pennsylvania Court of Common Pleas

I 1196 to Michaelmas 1 John 1199.

The author's ultimate objective is to show the influence of the royal forest upon the daily lives of contemporaries—both the barons who held land and the peasants who tilled land within the royal forests. It should be noted that there was no question of disafforesting land placed within the forest by William I and William II.

Archaeology and History of Medieval Sherwood Forest: Bibliography

Due to the diligence, commitment and continued efforts of our staff and students to our mitigation measures, we will maintain a safe learning environment for all students. Barons whose holdings lay within the royal forest were restricted in their use of the land, and the activity of all who lived or traveled in the forest was circumscribed. Offenders who felled trees outside the demesne were attached by four pledges; if a deer was found dead an inquisition was held with the four nearest villages, while the finder was attached by six pledges; if a mastiff was found near a dead beast, provided it was muzzled, the owner was quit.
