Regulating the regulators

We proposed broadly applying the approach we currently have for nurses and midwives to nursing associates in some areas, as well as developing new standards specifically for nursing associates.

Standards and guidelines for nurses

Although the nursing role has been greatly extended, most nurses operate under the supervision and guidance of doctors. These midwives often set standards for good midwifery care, knowledge and skills that are in grave danger of being lost in the West. Helpful tips to guide nurses in the appropriate use of social media are also included.

Nursing associate consultation

Subject General ISSN 2046-2336 eISSN 2052-1251 DOI 10. What are your views on the composition and methods of appointment to the first statutory Council? Some of the women who book with them may not opt for other services and, thus, may give birth unassisted by a midwife.

Advanced nurse practitioners in a hospital setting: the reality, Paediatric Care

Our members who have been appointed to this committee have found their skills and knowledge wasted as the few cases they have been invited to judge have involved nursing issues.
