To control the process, Scientific Management uses empirical measures to determine what is important.

4.3 The Roles of Mission, Vision, and Values

During your pool based session, your tutor will go through your practical assessment. Liebler and McConnell 2011 discussed the roots of performance based management practices entering into health care fields through the development and practice of Scientific Management. The study looks at how technology is being used to help monitor, track, and adjust training protocols as well as assist in the proper development of
