taining a dense population. A man can purchase forty acres here for $5 per acre and make more money on it than he can on the best 100 acres in Illinois or Indiana, for he can plant it all in pears or peaches or grapes and while they are getting ready to bear he can raise three crops in a year on the same land. Any of my numerous friends in the North or West who want information, address me and I will freely give it. WILLIAM SIGEISON,
