The Making of the Consumer: Knowledge, Power and Identity in the Modern World (Cultures of Consumption)

It was also a site in which conceptions of the domestic and the foreign were produced, exchanged and consumed. Much more than a material revolt of the end-user, in their critique of fashion and the department store women and men in the league developed a vocabulary of the ethical consumer, an emancipatory language that offered both an entry into the public sphere and a way of reconnecting the interests of consumers and producers.
