Police Casualties, 1919

This new Irish police force found itself dealing with an unsettled population, many of whom were suspicious of law and order after centuries of forceful policing by the British. The last survivor of the conflict, of the IRA, died in October 2007 at the age of 105. Public Record Office, The National Archives.

Royal Irish Constabulary

From the establishment of the military prison in 1921, to the escapes, hunger strikes and riots, as well as the fatal shooting by sentries of two internees that took place there, Spike Island's Republican Prisoners, 1921 is the first comprehensive history of individuals and events on the island during the Irish War of Independence.

Irish War of Independence

On 21 January 1919 they formed and.

The potential success of the third in 1912 introduced serious tensions: opponents of the Bill organised the in January 1913 while supporters formed the in response. RIC members were threatened, and many were attacked, leading to substantial resignations from the force see figures below. Edition: 1st; Buy with confidence.

Police Casualties in Ireland 1919

In Police Casualties in Ireland 1919 - 1922, Richard Abbott addresses this imbalance by recording in detail the deaths of over 500 police casualties during the war, not only from the RIC, but also the Dublin Metropolitan Police, the Auxiliaries, Black and Tans and Ulster Special Constabulary. Fears of informers after such failed ambushes often led to a spate of IRA shootings of informers, real and imagined.
