Lost in Translation

The author, an historian, has chronicled the story of the CA exclusionists, groups of men and women active in CA politics and society, often divided on many issues and interest but united in their desire to halt forever the coming of Japanese to American shores. Girdner, Audrie and Anne Loftis. Nagata 1993 Linguistic Americanization of Japanese Americans in Hawaii, Nobuhiro Adachi 1996 A study of issues central to the linguistic experience of Japanese immigrants and their descendants in Hawaii, this book provides valuable cross-cultural information as well as a record of the fuller Japanese American experience in Hawaii.

Poetry, Poets, and Poems at Moonrabbit Blues

Berkeley: University of California Press, 1952. Strangers from a Different Shore: A History of Asian Americans. As an 'indelibly American' woman, she describes the conflict of competing political loyalties, gender role expectations, and ethnic identity in a voice of immediacy and authenticity that make these intensely personal, unselfconscious letters a valuable contribution.

UNL Libraries

A chronology and comprehensive overview of the Japanese American experience underscored by first person accounts of relocation.

In memory, Toyoji Tomita

The Decision to Relocate the Japanese Americans. They also reveal an ordinary, resourceful, sassy, yet vulnerable young woman negotiating her way through tough situations.
