The National Training Center matures : 1985

Leaders must realize that the subordinate units must gain and maintain communication with their higher headquarters. In addition to publishing its own journals, the division also provides traditional and digital publishing services to many client scholarly societies and associations. A month-long NTC Rotation provides more than 4,000 service members from 31 states, including units from 13 National Guard states and territories, with realistic training to enhance their combat, support and sustainment capabilities.
