The French Revolution: Terror and Triumph

Most peasants worked the land as feudal tenants or sharecroppers and were required to pay a range of taxes, tithes and feudal dues.

What was the Reign of Terror during the French Revolution?

What was the reason of discontent among the third estate that led to the outbreak of French Revolution? Dechristianization During the Terror, deputies on mission began attacking the symbols of Catholicism: smashing images, vandalizing buildings, and burning vestments. Meanwhile, factional infighting in Paris saw more groups go to the guillotine and sansculotte power began to wane, partly as a result of exhaustion, partly because of the success of their measures there was little left to agitate for and partly as a purging of the Paris Commune took hold. Meanwhile, power struggles between sansculottes and their enemies had begun to erupt in many sections of Paris.

The Terror

Personally, I found this book to be very interesting and I came to realize the French Revolution was much more than what everyone thinks. .

The Oxford History of the French Revolution

Leading up to the Terror By 1793, the revolutionary government was in crisis. The Republic of Virtue concentrated power at the Centre, around Robespierre. He explores how a movement which began with optimism and general enthusiasm soon became a tragedy, not only for the ruling orders, but for millions of ordinary people all over Europe.

The Oxford History of the French Revolution

However, this early phase of the terror was not, as legend recalls, aimed at nobles, who made up only 9% of the victims; clergy were 7%. The Reign of Terror was an immense turning point in the French revolution and lasted for 18 months.

The French Revolution: Terror and Triumph

This book offers young adults a vivid portrait of one of history's most momentous eras: the ten-year period in which France was transformed from a monarchy to a democracy and then, abruptly, into a dictatorship.

The Oxford History of the French Revolution

In 1792, French adversaries were pushing in on all borders and spies were rampant on the streets. They are clear demonstrations of the ideals of the revolution- mainly being equality before the law, freedom of speech and a united France. In Toulon, which was recaptured on December 17th thanks to one and his artillery, 800 were shot and nearly 300 guillotined.
