SECOND SOLDIER And the third is a wine of Sicily. THE TOILETTE OF SALOMÉ—II HERODIAS I will not have her dance.

Strauss, R: Salomé op. 54

The long black nights, when the moon hides her face, when the stars are afraid, are not so black. I think the Tetrarch is afraid of him. It has been remarked that Wilde confuses Herod the Great Mat.

Salome

SALOMÉ I will not dance, Tetrarch. Richard Strauss's revolutionary score and scandalous Oscar Wilde-inspired drama took the world by storm at its premiere and continues to wow audiences today. His SALOME focuses on the interior motivations of the characters and explores the power dynamic within the house of Herod.

Salomé: symbolism, decadence and censorship

The Stoics are coarse people. How did Richard Strauss orchestrate such a brilliantly conceived opera, as Sir Mark Elder once wrote about Salomé?
