Metropolitan Opera

LEHRBUBE Beim Leisten sitzt er mit der Feder! I have bothered to go into such detail because I think Solti is seriously undervalued as a conductor—as I have said before in these pages.

Die Meistersinger von Nürnberg

Toni Blackenheim masters Beckmesser's challenging vocal line, and also succeeds in giving a wonderfully prissy and never annoying characterisation of a potentially problematic role.

Die Meistersinger von Nürnberg libretto (English/German)

Walther has been led up the steps of the Singers' platform and there sinks before Eva on one knee SACHS to the people, pointing to Walther and Eva The witness, I think, I chose well: do you bear ill will against Hans Sachs for doing so? He extracts a promise from Sachs: he must not claim the poem as his own, no matter what happens. DAVID Ja - hätt' ich's nur selbst schon zum Singer gebracht! When Beckmesser is led to the little mound of turf upon which the singer is obliged to stand, we have the humorous variation of the Mastersinger Motive from the Prelude.

Die Meistersinger von Nürnberg (Wagner)

For you the poet's sacred resolve! SACHS starting up in agreeable surprise Ah, child! EVA bang Seid ihr das nicht? Scene 1 David arrives with basket in hand. And I swear you'll never become Marker! When the apprentices enter, they proceed to erect the markers platform, but stop at times to annoy the somewhat self-sufficient David, while he is endeavouring to instruct Walther in the rules of the Mastersingers.

DIE MEISTERSINGER VON NÜRNBERG

Beckmesser, meanwhile, is worrying himself about the turn of events.
