Nagai, Kafū 1879

A chance encounter with an old patron, Yoshioka, leads to a relationship in which both lovers hope to profit: Yoshioka believes Komayo can restore his lost innocence; Komayo plans to use Yoshioka's patronage to compete in the elaborate music and dance performances staged by her fellow geisha. By 1916, both of Nagai's marriages had ended, his father had died, and he resigned from the university.
