The same applies to the nongeneric interfaces IEnumerator and IEnumerable. The College will retain such records for a length of time that is appropriate to their nature and as is required by law.

Archives Policies

Instructors wishing to place textbooks or other materials on reserve for their students to access are encouraged to do so. Order those future bestsellers early, and enter their records in your catalog right away.

IFLA

Older materials are usually retained for history research and actively preserved. One copy is purchased for the circulating collection and is put on display in the Hawthorne-Longfellow Library lobby for five years, after which time it is transferred to the circulating collection. The Alliance provides a range of services to member libraries.

Archives Policies

Public APIs should use , IDictionary , or a custom type implementing one or both of the interfaces.

Guidelines for Collections

Materials will not be returned to donors after donation. Examine the physical condition of items and decide if they require replacement or deaccessioning. Indeed, librarians and faculty have worked together for generations to build the deep and expansive collection that is the Bowdoin College Library today.

Heavy demand by readers will generally result in necessary items being purchased. Most members taking collections as parameters use the IEnumerable interface. Teaching faculty members are responsible for submitting requests for audio, electronic, print, and video materials that support their instruction.

Collection Development

We welcome suggestions from the community. The Library cannot provide donors with a monetary appraisal of donated materials. For example, a collection storing items of type Address implementing IEnumerable should be named AddressCollection.
