Finding the traces of behavioral and cognitive processes in big data and naturally occurring datasets

Thus, no gradients or weights is transmitting from the client model to the central server model. Recent efforts in federated learning have been devoted to interdisciplinary areas: not only machine learning is required, but also techniques from distributed optimization, statistics, cybersecurity, communication, systems, cryptography and many more.

Federated Learning Meets Natural Language Processing: A Survey

SD had largely been studied in psychophysiological research, such as in auditory or visual perception. Two high-profile examples in the past few years involved the use of data from Facebook Kramer et al.

Federated Learning Meets Natural Language Processing: A Survey

That is mobile keyboard suggestion, which is a well representative of federated NLP applications. The use of big data and naturally occurring datasets provides unprecedented opportunities and challenges for understanding human behavior and cognition.

Household survey data for research on well

With the explosion of social media, we share more about ourselves—in more public forums and in more varied media—than ever before. User Response Evaluation Apart from the above automatic evaluation methods, on-line FL-based NLP models also consider the response from users, e.
